

React Native Developer

Reporting to the Director of Product, you will be responsible for designing, developing, and testing React Native applications for iOS and Android platforms.

Who you are

You are a developer who is passionate about delivering incredible mobile experiences for users. You take a hands-on approach and thrive wearing multiple hats to deliver end to end development, testing, and debugging. You are excited about the opportunity to work with a growing team and roll up your sleeves to create amazing software.

What you'll be doing

- Support the development and design of our flagship mobile product (iOS and Android)
- Troubleshoot and resolve technical issues in a timely and accurate manner to improve performance and functionality
- Actively participate in code review and knowledge sharing sessions
- Use smooth animations to create a fantastic user interface
- Don't be too vague – but don't get into job duties

How you'll be measured

- Burndown
- Code quality

What we're looking for

- 3-5 years experience building Android and iOS applications
- Strong understanding of the mobile development life cycle from end to end
- Firm grasp of the JavaScript language, HTML, and CSS & React Native
- Knowledge of functional, class components, or object-oriented programming
- Proven ability to write well-documented, clean JavaScript code
- Ability to interpret and follow technical plans
- Understanding of REST APIs
- Extremely familiar with Google Play Store & Apple App Store

What will help you succeed

- Strong testing, diagnosing and debugging skills
- Excellent analytical skills and problem-solving attitude
- Strong oral and written communication
- Ability to perform in a team environment

Who Are We?

Virtuo is a home concierge platform redesigning the entire homeownership journey. We partner with large home builders to help them deliver the seamless, first-class homeownership experience that consumers have come to expect in today's age.

We're a tight-knit, straight shooting team – we collaborate and dream big, and are looking for someone who wants that kind of camaraderie. We don't take ourselves too seriously, but when it comes to the business, we are laser focused on our vision and our results show it.
